

Marshall Says He Isn't Candidate for Any Political Office

"Never Could Be Drafted", He Tells Newsmen in Washington

Washington, Jan. 21—(AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall said today he is not a candidate for any political office and "never could be drafted"—even for the presidency.

Arriving to take office as secretary of state, Marshall told reporters he considered his new post non-political. He then volunteered:

1. "I cannot be considered a candidate for political office x x x.
2. "I never could be drafted. x x x.
3. "I am being explicit and emphatic in order to terminate once and for all any discussion of my name with regard to political matters."

Marshall talked to reporters after leaving the train that brought him here from Chicago on the last leg of his journey from China where he was President Truman's special envoy. Two hours later, he was sworn in as secretary at the White House in the presence of President Truman, his predecessor, James F. Byrnes, and other notables. He assumed his new duties with a pledge, "I'll do my best."

The oath was administered by Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson.

Since his appointment as secretary of state, Marshall's name has been mentioned in speculation about presidential candidates in 1948. Some have speculated he might run on a ticket with President Truman or obtain the Democratic nomination if Mr. Truman were not a candidate.

Questioned by Newsmen

In talking with reporters, Marshall made plain that in ruling himself out of political consideration he included the presidency as well as any other political office.

Newsmen who met his early morning train questioned him for more than five minutes on a great variety of subjects but had not specifically asked him about politics.

President Truman arranged for the swearing in ceremony for Marshall at the White House. It originally had been set for yesterday, but bad weather forced Marshall to stop at Chicago on a

To Exhume Body of Slain Woman

Chicago, Jan. 21—(AP)—The body of Mrs. Emily Wardenga, 39-year-old divorcee and expectant mother brutally beaten to death in a west side alley snowbank Jan. 2, was ordered exhumed today at Hayward, Wis., to help determine who was the killer.

Chicago police said a Great Lakes naval station seaman, Edward Sullivan, 19, of Chicago, had signed a statement that he killed Mrs. Wardenga after she resisted his advances. Sullivan was detained without charge.

The sailor was accused by a companion, Anthony Fedele, 20, who police said had related he witnessed the slaying. Prosecutors said the body was to be exhumed to determine whether Fedele would identify it.

William Kiss, 30, Chicago repairman, has been charged with manslaughter in the slaying. Police said he signed a statement Jan. 6 that he killed Mrs. Wardenga. Kiss repudiated his story and was freed on bond after Sullivan was detained. Kiss' attorney contended Kiss had been forced by police "brutality and mental torture" to make the purported confession.

Mrs. Wardenga's mother and a 19-year-old son live at Hayward, police said.

Deadline for Filing Petitions 5 O'clock

Four mayoralty candidates have filed petitions for the primary election, Feb. 23, according to City Clerk Wayne C. Smith.

The aspirants are incumbent Mayor William V. Slothower, Walter C. Knack, J. Fred Hoffman and Joseph Gibson.

In the commissioner field, ten have filed petitions, incumbents Joseph, Vail, Carl H. Newman, and George Campbell and aspirants T. J. Miller, Paul Sodergren, John Bohmstedt, Glenn "Skip" Camery, John Earle, George Lindquist and Forrest Shawger.

A. N. Kennedy, present police magistrate, is the only candidate for that post.

The deadline for filing petitions is 5 p. m. today.

Candidate

Walter C. Knack, Dixon wholesaler, has filed his petitions with City Clerk Wayne C. Smith as a candidate for the office of mayor. In announcing his candidacy for the office, Knack today said:

"I have been asked by a committee of Dixon business men and citizens to become a candidate for mayor. I have given the matter due consideration and have consented to announce my candidacy. I am willing to make the business sacrifice required to give to the office, if elected, a business administration and the civic-mindedness and vision which the mayor's leadership requires. I have a pride in Dixon and I am grateful for the business success which the community has brought to me. I want to repay in faithful service this debt of gratitude I owe to Dixon."

Hoover May Make New Food Study in Occupied Germany

Washington, Jan. 21—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover has been asked to undertake a survey of food problems in the American and British zones of occupied Germany.

This was disclosed today by a War department official who asked that his name not be given. He said Hoover has not yet given his answer.

Presumably the proposal to the 72-year-old former president has the approval of the British government and President Truman as well as the highest War department officials concerned with occupation policies.

The British zone was coupled with that of the United States in the proposal, officials said, because of the recent agreement to unify them economically.

Authority on Food
As a world authority on food problems since World War I days, Hoover was asked to make a personal survey expected to require several weeks and then to submit recommendations on means to increase food output and to assure its most equitable distribution.

Those familiar with the proposal said that among specific problems which need solution are the extent of government controls of crops.

Lawsuit

Chicago, Jan. 21—(AP)—Miss Virginia Nash, 23-year-old Chicago typist, charges in a lawsuit that she was struck in the left eye and permanently injured by a flying cork from a champagne bottle. She seeks $100,000 damages.

The suit, filed yesterday, names Colosimo's Inc., as defendant and alleges that the waiter in the night club carelessly opened the bottle.

"Snow-Maker" Snowed Under With Requests -- One Plea Is for Sugar

Schnectady, N. Y., Jan. 21—(AP)—So you don't like snow, eh? You find it a hazard to driving and a slushy annoyance to walking?

You groan at the thought of the back-breaking chore of shoveling the sidewalk?

"Snow-Maker" Vincent J. Schaefer says there's plenty of folks in many parts of the world who are fond of nature's white fluff—and for a variety of reasons. Schaefer is the General Electric research laboratory scientist who last November succeeded in manufacturing an artificial snowfall by dropping dry-ice pellets from an airplane into a moisture-laden cloud.

Since the initial experiment, Schaefer has been "snowed under" with requests to "make it snow."

A class of school children in Long Beach, Calif., some of whom never have seen snow, forwarded a bundle of postcards asking, "would you please make us a snow-storm?"

Stationery "Racket" Draws Critical Eye of House Majority

Many Convert Allowance Into Cash After It Accumulates

Washington, Jan. 21—(AP)—Disturbed by reports that many representatives are converting their annual stationery allowance into cash, influential house Republicans are trying to find a way to block such windfalls.

One GOP leader told a reporter privately the cash withdrawals have climbed into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, adding:

"We may have to do something to prevent the members from letting their allowances pile up from year to year and then taking it all in a lump sum."

Each year the house appropriates a stated amount for stationery for each of its members. The allowance reached a record high of $950 last year, which, added to the $700 granted in 1945, made a total of $1,650 per member for the 79th congress.

Current Allowance $200
That congress also was the first to vote its members an annual expense allowance of $2,500, exclusive of the stationery allowance.

Many members spend the entire stationery grant for office supplies, but some use little or none of it. What they don't use is accumulated to their credit and they can take it in cash anytime they desire, even if they are defeated for reelection.

The current allowance for the first session of the 80th congress is $200 per member. But if custom is followed this amount will be increased later in the session.

One suggested solution, a Republican chieftain said, is to prohibit accumulations of stationery allowances from year to year. In other words, if a member didn't use his entire allowance, the unexpended part would revert to the treasury.

Exonerate Suspect in Coast Murder

Los Angeles, Jan. 21—(AP)—Search for the slaying slayer of pretty Elizabeth Short, 22-year-old movie aspirant, started anew today with the release of a red-haired acquaintance, Robert Manley, after police announcement of his complete exoneration.

Capt. Jack Donahoe of the homicide bureau, who earlier yesterday ordered Manley booked on suspicion of murder, said the 25-year-old pipe clamp salesman's movements last Tuesday night and early Wednesday, when Miss Short was killed and her body severed, had been "checked out satisfactorily."

Manley submitted to two lie detector tests before his release, and Donahoe quoted him as saying he had not seen the girl since Jan. 9, when he dropped her at a downtown hotel after an overnight trip from San Diego. Manley's attractive wife, Harriett, mother of their four-month-old son, greeted him with a hug as he was freed.

An inquest has been set for tomorrow in the case, after which the girl's mother, Mrs. Phoebe Short of Medford, Mass., said she would take the body to Berkeley, Calif., for burial.

Anderson Seeking Advice to Prevent Huge Surplus Loss

Wartime Price Supports Cause 80 Million Loss On Potato Crop

Washington, Jan. 21—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Anderson will seek congressional advice this week on how to prevent the government's $80,000,000 loss on last year's potato surplus from spreading to other products.

The loss resulted from wartime price supports which are not scheduled to expire until the end of 1948.

Anderson arranged to discuss the matter with the House Agriculture committee Wednesday and with the Senate Agriculture committee Thursday.

The problem of carrying out government farm price commitments promises to become one of the most ticklish economic and political issues to confront the new Republican Congress and the Truman administration.

It is generally agreed by farm experts that agriculture has moved into a new era of scientific farming. Except in case of drought or some other abnormal development, agriculture is capable of producing more of many commodities than markets will take at prices now defined by law as being fair to producers.

The problem facing policy makers is this:

"Should the government place no restraints on production and permit farmers to produce all they can even though it cannot all be sold at the designated prices?"

Heavy Losses Probable

If the answer should be "yes," the result might be the expenditure of millions—perhaps billions—of dollars of public funds to take the surpluses off the market. There would be heavy losses among perishables.

A negative answer would require a return to rigid government production control measures. Neither the Democratic administration nor the Republican Congress want to take the responsibility for directing such a course because both parties have committed themselves, in political campaigns, to "agricultural abundance."

Two other suggested solutions have been advanced by farm leaders in and out of government. Both place emphasis upon expanding consumption rather than

Stalin Says World Is "Tired of War", Roosevelt Reveals

New York, Jan. 21—(AP)—Elliott Roosevelt quotes Josef Stalin as telling him that while there has been "certain deterioration" in relations of the United States and Soviet governments, "I see nothing frightful about this in the sense of a violation of peace or a military conflict."

Roosevelt interviewed the Russian leader in the Kremlin on his 67th birthday last Dec. 21, and reports on the meeting in the issue of Look magazine released today.

"Not a single great power, even if its government were anxious to do so, could now raise a large army to fight another allied power, another great power, because now one cannot possibly fight without one's people—and the people are unwilling to fight," Roosevelt said Stalin told him.

"They are tired of war. And besides, there are no understandable objectives to justify a new war."

"One will not know for what he has to fight and, therefore, I see nothing frightful that some representatives of the United States government are talking about the deterioration of relations between us."

"In view of all these considerations, I think that the danger of a new war is not real."

Break in Subzero Wave to Be Slow

(By The Associated Press)

A subzero wave which howled into the North Central states on strong winds last night spread rapidly eastward today.

The weather bureau reported all precipitation in the nation's south-eastern flood zone ceased this morning as sub-freezing weather entered the south, bringing minimum temperatures of 26 degrees to Vicksburg, Miss., 29 to Birmingham, Ala., and 30 to Atlanta.

A cold wave warning by government forecasters predicted lows of zero to ten above in Ohio and upper New York tonight.

Last night's lowest temperatures in the cold wave area included -24 at International Falls, Minn., -19 at Duluth, Minn., -19 at Park Falls, Wis., -7 at Milwaukee, Wis., -4 at Rockford, Ill., -1 at Chicago, 1 at Des Moines, Ia., 9 at Effingham, Ill., and 14 at St. Louis, Mo.

Slow moderation of the cold wave in the central states starting tomorrow, was predicted by forecasters.

The subzero blasts, which reduced temperatures as much as 42 degrees in a few hours, were preceded in some areas by snow and freezing rain squalls, glazing highways and making automobile travel hazardous. Ice streets in Chicago caused many accidents last night, most of them of the fender and bumper bashing class.

Miami's 87 was the highest point on the nation's weather map yesterday.

Talmadge Offers to Abide by Decisions of "White Primary"

Offers Resignation if Thompson Will Agree To Quit Also

Atlanta, Jan. 21—(AP)—Herman Talmadge offered today to submit the controversy over the governorship of Georgia to the people in a "Democratic white primary" election as soon as the legislature completes its session.

Speaking to the general assembly as governor of Georgia upon its invitation, Talmadge said:

"If the lieutenant governor will resign, your governor will resign. The speaker of the House of Representatives will assume executive authority."

Under the state constitution, then the House speaker must call an election within 60 days. The legislative session is expected to end in March.

"Belongs to the People"

Talmadge's offer came as a last minute revision in his prepared

"I am anxious for the people of Georgia to have an opportunity to express their choice through a Democratic white primary at the earliest possible moment."

Talmadge recommended that the legislature remain in session to institute a democratic white primary and strengthen the election laws regarding qualifications of

Veteran's Wife, 2 Babies Die in Fire

Rock Island, Ill., Jan. 21—(AP)—The young wife and two small children of a Rock Island war veteran, who was scheduled to be discharged this week, burned to death early today when fire gutted their two room tourist cabin near the south limits of Rock Island.

The dead are: Mrs. Shirley Berry, 21, formerly of Kidder, S. D.; her son, Edward, two and a half years old, and daughter, Scarlett Dawn, six months old.

The fire was discovered about 2 a. m. by state highway patrolmen who sought to arouse the residents of the cabin. Seeing no one in bed and hearing no noise, they then notified firemen who fought the blaze in zero temperatures and a high wind. The charred bodies were discovered after the flames were brought under control.

Berry was reported to be at the Army separation center at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

Wave Killed When, for First Time, Radar-Control Fails to Land Plane

Oakland, Calif., Jan. 21—(AP)—

A wave medical corpsman was killed and 20 other persons, including three women, were injured in the crash of a four-engine Navy plane at Oakland airport yesterday when, for the first time in more than 76,000 landings, radar-ground-control failed to guide a ship to safety.

The big naval air transport plane landed 150 feet short of the log-surrounded runway and crashed into a four-foot rock wall at the edge of the field.

Its undercarriage sheared away and the plane skidded across the field on its fuselage for 1,000 feet, shedding wreckage and passengers as it went. Then it caught fire and burned.

The dead wave was identified by the Navy today as Aviation Specialist 3-c Margaret Wallace, whose father is Harry W. Wallace, short of the field."

Snow Plow Within 9 Miles of Buried Town

Browning, Mont., Jan. 21—(AP)—Digging through drifts 10 to 15 feet high, bulldozers and rotary plows today had traveled nine miles along a snow-blocked road leading to the marooned town of Babb in northwest Montana.

The 40-mile road from Browning to Babb is the only highway supply line for Babb's 300 inhabitants whose fuel and food supplies are dwindling.

With good weather, crew members hope to open the road by Friday.

Telephoned reports from Babb said fuel oil and coal supplies were rapidly dwindling and a food shortage might occur unless the road is opened soon. Babb has no railroad service.

Private airplanes have taken small quantities of food from cut Bank, east of Browning, to Babb, and mail is being flown to the snowbound town twice weekly.

He died of his burns a few hours later in the Philippine General hospital.

Greatest Liability in Cost-Plus-Fixed-Fee War Contracts

Government Would Have To Pay Contractors for Added Expense

Washington, Jan. 21—(AP)—Undersecretary of War Kenneth C. Royall told senators today that portal pay claims in connection with war contracts could cost the government as much as $500,000,000.

Royall testified before a senate judiciary subcommittee considering legislation to outlaw or restrict back pay portal suits now totaling more than $4,000,000,000.

The undersecretary said the government faces the greatest liability on cost-plus-fixed-fee war contracts. Under these, he testified the war department must compensate contractors for additional costs which may arise, such as portal pay.

Royall said that cost-plus fee contracts for the period 1941-46 total $40,000,000,000 to $45,000,000,000.

Revenues Threatened
Chairman Donnell (R-Mo) said the group also will hear heads of other government departments, including navy and commerce. Senator Capehart (R-Ind), author of a bill before the subcommittee to outlaw such suits, has declared the $4,000,000,000 in claims threaten heavy reduction in federal tax revenues.

Proposed legislation in both senate and house would amend the wage-hour act of 1948 to offset a Supreme court decision that employers must pay for worker time they control, whether or not actual productive labor is involved. The newest proposal, by Chairman Donnell, would outlaw all past, present or future claims. Hartley

Of Interest To Farmers

AA FARM NEWS

Feb. 1, 1947, last day for marketing report: Under regulations a report must be made to the county committee on or before Feb. 1 of all conservation practices carried out under the 1946 ACP program. Failure to make this report by the deadline date will result in forfeiture of payments otherwise earned. All farmers or landowners who have not reported the completion of approved 1946 conservation practices are urged to do so immediately.

Soil Erosion costs us 4 Billion Annually: Each year the rains that run off of our farms carry with them tremendous amounts of valuable soil—black gold—valued at approximately 4 billion dollars. Some authorities say that by this destructive process of erosion 50,000,000 acres of U. S. lands have been ruined beyond further cultivation another 50,000,000 acres ditched and gullied and devoid of top soil, and still another 100,000,000 acres stripped of more than half of the productive top soil. In short, erosion has already damaged more than two-fifths of all the cropland in the United States. This is a tremendous waste of our greatest resource—a waste that is particularly intolerable in view of the fact that much of it can and should be prevented. Numerous Government Agencies—Extension Service, SCS, and our own AAA agency—have programs designed to assist farmers in lessening or eliminating this intolerable waste. Call on us and on these other agencies to find out what help can be furnished for your own farm.

Food critically short in many countries: There are still danger signs in the food situation abroad. Although world supplies are slightly higher than a year ago and fewer countries are critically short of food, many nations do not have enough food in sight to last until next harvest. A large part of Continental Europe faces an outlook almost as serious as last year. Wheat and cereals continue as the key products for relieving deficit areas. Imports need be stepped up sharply. Here is a market for a large part of our wheat and corn crops, providing arrangements and facilities permit the moving of these products to where they are needed.

December grain exports largest monthly total in marketing year:

It is estimated that 43,000,000 bushels of U. S. grain and grain products were exported in December, making it the largest monthly total in the 1946-47 marketing year to date. This includes 676,000 tons of wheat, 300,000 tons of flour of Europe and Asia, to numerous UNRRA countries, and to some cash buying nations. Increased shipments in December were due to improvements in transportation and shipping facilities, and it is expected that such improvements will continue during the current month.

Quality buying and marketing: When farm folk buy equipment and other things they devote attention to kind and quality. So it is with purchasers of farm products. Processors and consumers will be demanding more and more of the production of the kind and quality to meet their requirements or desires. Farmers should be alert to this demand—the need for doing those things in production that increase quality for better preparing their produce for the market. This is illustrated by an experiment in wool marketing. In the past much of our wool has been placed on the market in such a way that it's expensive for mills to handle. We have tied entire fleeces together, including the coarse and stained wool, around the edges of the fleece... often put different grades of wool in the same bag. This has caused mills extra work—so they have offered lower prices. Under a recent project in Texas, wool has been prepared with more care—similar to the way it's done by competing foreign countries. As result this wool has been sold to mills that in the past have been buying only foreign wools.

Actual versus apparent food values: One of the suggestions recently received by the Department is to the effect that more extensive research should be given to "food content values." This is based on the idea that the content of most of our vegetables and other plant food products depend upon the soil upon which they are produced—and that the vitamin and mineral content of our livestock products depend upon the completeness of the ration and type of feed that is used in producing our stock. It suggests the day when we will buy many of our farm products—eggs, butter, etc.—with a guaranteed vitamin and mineral content. To the farmers this would mean paying increased attention to feeding his livestock correctly—and keeping the soils of his farm supplied with essential elements—so that his produce, either crop or livestock, would contain the food essentials needed for health—and listed on the statement of food value attached to all products placed on the market.

Farmers, Vets Hear Talk on Conservation

O. C. Holt, vocational agricultural teacher at the Amboy Community high school, has announced that the young farmers and veterans classes will be combined for one session tomorrow night to hear a discussion on soil conservation.

At this joint meeting, Ray Lane of the U. S. Soil Conservation service will lead a discussion on the relation of soil waste to the national and world populations, influence of soil on our economy, how the Soil Conservation service works, conservation practices and conservation research data.

Both classes have an elaborate program covering many phases of agriculture. In other instances, the classes meet separately with different instructors.

Annual Farm Bureau Meeting is Thursday

Prof. W. C. Kammlade will be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Farm Bureau membership in Amboy Thursday, at which a gathering of more than 500 members is expected, it was announced this morning.

The meeting runs from 10 a. m. until 3 p. m., with entertainment furnished by George Gobel, former NBC radio entertainer, and the Amboy Township high school band, which will play during the noon hour and to open the afternoon portion of the program.

Prof. Kammlade has been in charge of the sheep division at the University of Illinois, and for several years has had charge of the experimental station at Dixon Springs, Ill.

Milk, after being drawn, should be cooled in winter just as in warm summer weather. Prompt cooling prevents growth of bacteria.

The 46th Annual Farm and Home Week program will be held at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, Urbana, Jan. 27-30, 1947.

Digest of the News for Poultry Raisers

A Weekly Letter by Frank Priebe

Dear Friends:

Like everyone else, you'd probably like to see a cut in taxes.

But one of the biggest items in the budget is the amount of government figures it will need to carry out its guarantee to support prices of certain farm products at 90 per cent of parity.

It cost the government (that is, the taxpayers) $80,000,000 to support the price of potatoes last year. And that's only one product.

No one knows what it's going to cost to support the price of eggs this spring.

The USDA appointed a committee of producers, processors, and distributors to advise them in developing a program to support the price of eggs this season, and they met in Washington last week.

During January the support price was 35c a dozen. Any egg drier selling powdered eggs to the government had to certify that the producers had received no less than 35c a dozen, average, for the shell eggs which were used.

Normally, at this time of year, the egg market is declining and prices continue to go down until April.

Following the meeting with the industry advisory committee, the USDA announced a support price of 33c a dozen for February, March and April. Certainly this should insure a good return to anyone who is getting even fair production from his flock.

USDA announced a support price has to be dumped (which has happened before), and if, at the same time, consumers buy fewer eggs than they otherwise would, because of the relatively high price at which they are supported, it's not going to be a healthy situation for this industry.

If you were taxed to support the price of eggs at a price which made them so expensive you couldn't afford to use as many as you'd like, you'd be a little irked about it, wouldn't you?

That's just exactly the spot in which a good many consumers in this country have been placed. It's fine to get a high price for eggs, but as an industry we can't afford to have the price kept at a point which discourages the use of our product—and encourages consumers to buy competitive foods instead of eggs. It's something to think about. Sincerely, Frank Priebe.

4-8 Boys Get Forestry Pointers

Forestry Group Studies Trees on Two Lee Farms

Nearly 30, braving bad weather Wednesday for a forestry discussion, saw that Red and Jack pine transplants will grow remarkably well on the lighter soils in the southern sections of Lee county.

Several trees more than 18 feet tall were found on the farms of Raymond Faivre and Henry Montavon, and the average height of trees planted in 1935 is now recorded at 15 feet. Montavon has made replantings in 1942 and 1943 in places where trees were over-come by drought, while Faivre made extensive plantings on his land last spring.

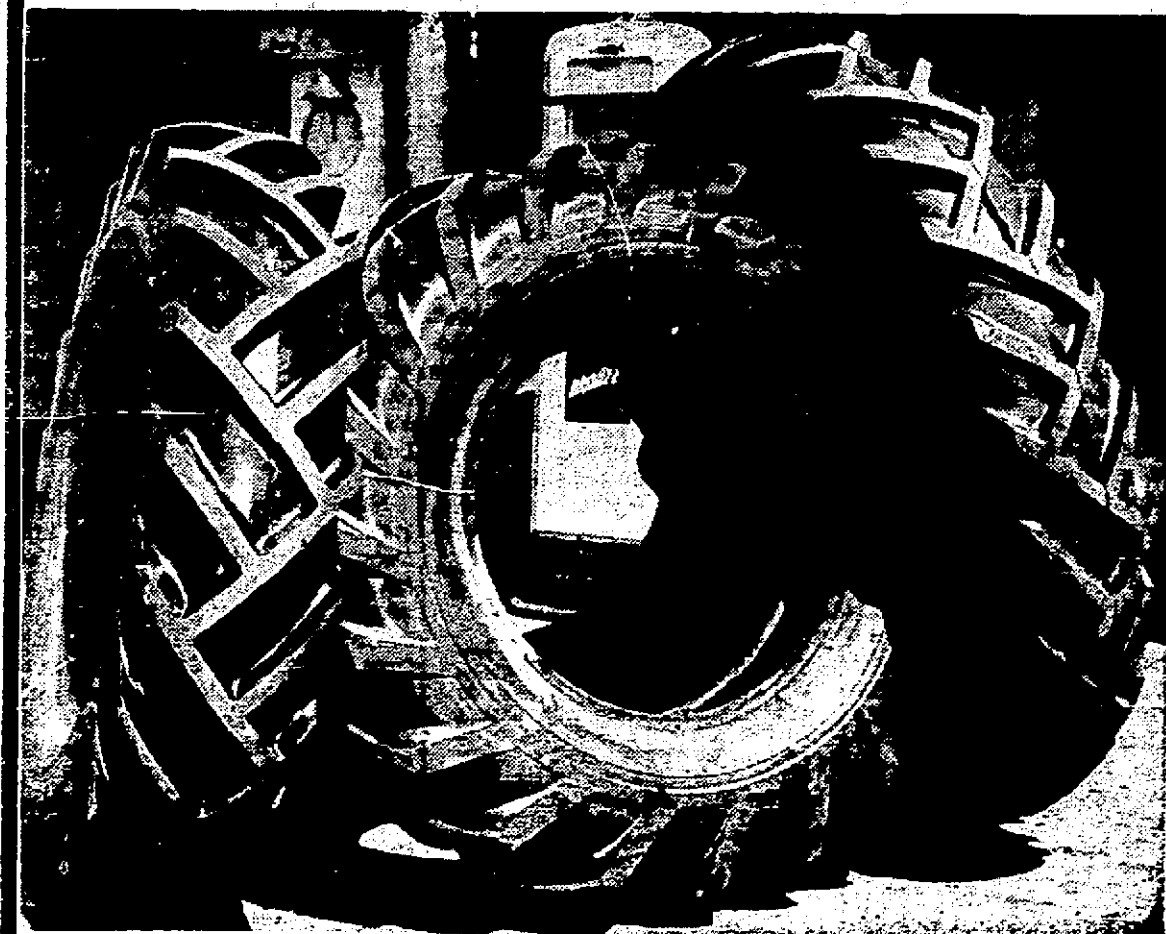

In his illustrated talk following the tour, W. F. Bulkley, the Forestry department at the University of Illinois pointed out that satisfaction in the beauty of the trees will be the main returns for a number of years. Some of the stands will have to be thinned in order to leave trees which are most suitable for lumber. Trees taken out are useful as fence posts if treated with proper chemicals.

However, as lumber supplies become shorter and shorter in America, the value of these forest plantings will increase. Returns may be 40 years in materializing, but they will come from land that would be barren and unproductive in that length of time under cultivation.

As was suggested by Ray Lane and William Briggs from the Soil Conservation Service, this is more proper land use than even pasture.

Soybeans were introduced into Illinois in 1896. They have grown to be a major crop, occupying 3,500,000 acres in Illinois with a production of over 70,000,000 bushels of beans a year.

Ogle County Farm Bureau Notes

The association average for December was 725 pounds of milk and 26.5 pounds of fat with 412 cows on test from 19 herds. One hundred-two of these cows were dry; 117 produced over 40 pounds of fat, according to County Tester Harold White.

The herd of 14 P. B. and G. H. owned by Miller & Spertling led the association with an average of 1,259 pounds of milk and 43.5 pounds of fat. Milking twice daily—none were dry.

The herd of 29 P. B. and G. H. owned by the Prairie Trail farm averaged 1,245 pounds of milk and 42.7 fat. Milking twice daily—3 were dry.

The herd of 21 G. H. owned by Raymond Lair averaged 906 pounds of milk and 32.7 pounds of fat. Milking twice daily—two were dry.

Farm and Home Activity Features Group Meetings

Urbana, Ill.—Livestock owners who will be attending Farm and Home Week Jan. 27-30 at Urbana will hear the latest findings of the agricultural experiment station in dealing with health and management problems of their stock.

Dairymen will find a program especially suited to their needs for timely information on artificial breeding programs, the new Bang's disease control law, the future of milk prices and planning a sound long-time dairy program. Speakers will be from the departments of dairy husbandry and agricultural economics and the college of veterinary medicine.

In the section on livestock management, nutrition specialists will give suggestions for feeding rations for the various classes of livestock. The staff of the new veterinary college has arranged a program covering new developments in animal disease control.

This is the 46th annual Farm and Home Week program sponsored by the College of Agriculture, the programs having started in 1901. The high attendance was 4,966 persons registered in 1942.

A group of nearly 100 university specialists and guest speakers from off the University of Illinois campus comprise the roster of featured lecturers. Other sectional meetings of special interest for men include programs on beekeeping, strengthening Illinois' milk-pricing program, power and machinery, livestock marketing, land prices, rural electrification, plant and soil science, farm planning and soil conservation and farm structures.

Water is the most important and cheapest ingredient a hen needs to manufacture eggs. For each pound of feed, laying birds consume two pounds of water.

Conservationist

WILLIAM M. BRIGGS

Successor to G. M. Flint, DeKalb, who has taken charge of Boone, Kane and DeKalb county soil conservation districts, William M. Briggs last week took over his new duties as district conservationist. Administratively in charge of the Lee, Ogle, and Whiteside county districts, Briggs formerly was associated with the U. S. Soil Conservation Service at Morris. A veteran of 12 years conservation work, he is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. Married, he is the father of a boy and a girl.

QUITS CONSERVATION POST

Donald F. Meyers, assistant to Ray Lane in the Lee county district, has resigned to enroll in a photography school in Texas. He left for Texas Jan. 13. The position left vacant by Meyers will be filled as soon as an eligible person can be located on the Civil Service register, according to Ray Lane of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

While in America we have an average of 3 1/2 acres of arable land per person, the need the world over, for good living, is 2 to 2 1/2 acres per person.

Warren Gives His Dairy Report, Tips For Improvement

By breeding the dairy cows of Ogle county to the outstanding bulls of the Dairy Breeding association, there could be an average improvement of 28 pounds of butterfat per year, and replacement of cows by their higher producing daughters could increase the income from a herd of 20 cows by $250 yearly, figuring butterfat at 50 cents per pound, Farm Adviser D. E. Warren said last week in his annual report.

The figure of $350 given as the value per herd of the Dairy Herd Improvement association, was based on Ogle county figures which showed that herds, which had been enrolled in the testing association for 10 years or more, produced an average of 346.9 pounds of butterfat per cow and returned $77.01 per cow per year above feed cost.

Herds in the association between five and 10 years had produced on the average 313.6 pounds of butterfat per cow and returned $67.17 above feed cost, but herds in the association less than five years averaged 296.2 of butterfat per cow and returned only $59.10 above feed cost.

Thus the advantage for herds tested 10 years as compared with herds tested less than five years was $17.91 per cow or $358 per year for a 20-cow herd.

BUYS BROWN SWISS

Frank Adams, Dixon, has recently purchased the registered Brown Swiss bull, Nell's Rusty 79697, from Dick Doty, Prophets-town, according to a report from Fred S. Idtse, secretary of the Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders' association, Beloit, Wis.

In only five of the past 50 years, has the harvested acreage of corn been smaller than in 1945. The harvested acreage was lower in 1898, 1929, 1940, 1941 and 1945. A record yield averaging 37.1 bushels to the acre on a relatively small acreage produced the nation's largest corn crop.

How You Can Make More Money On the Chickens You Raise

Records kept by 32 Iowa farmers one year just before the war show how much more profit you can make on every pound of poultry when you start your chicks early.

THE PROFIT ON EVERY POUND OF POULTRY SOLD looked like this when the chicks were started in February compared to this much profit when the chicks were started in March and this much profit when the chicks were started in April

(Figures from W. R. Whitfield, Iowa Poultry Extension Service, published in "Successful Poultry Management")

If you can make from 1 1/2 to 7 times more profit simply by starting chicks a few weeks earlier than you ordinarily would— isn't that an easy way to earn money?

It costs very little more to raise early chicks and you get a lot more for the poultry—because your springs are ready to sell before the bulk of the poultry crop comes on the market! And if you have springs to sell in May or June you can always get from 8 to 10c a pound more for them than you'd get for the same chickens in the fall. And, since your production costs are very little higher, most of that extra price represents extra profit.

Besides getting more for your springs, you also have pullets in full production when egg prices are highest in the fall. That adds still more to your extra profit from early chicks.

If you place your order now, we can have chicks for you in February. They'll be hardy chicks, bred to feather fast and put on weight in record time!

With no more investment and no more work you can make a lot more money— simply by timing your chicks to hit the highest markets. So stop in the next time you're in town and tell us how early you'll want your chicks! We will obtain them for you through our Priebe Hatchery at Humboldt, Iowa, and we know you'll be pleased with the results.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Washington—The pachydermic proportions of the federal debt of about $260 billions is furnishing an elephantine inspiration behind the rather warm debate developing over federal finances and, frankly, is splitting some of the Republicans in Congress. Certain stories have appeared recently in print suggesting revision of the Republican plan for a flat 20 per cent slicing would be advisable because of debt necessities. Rather openly the congressmen on all sides are mentioning the debt in their statements as reasons for what they variously wish to do.

Now this elephant is not as heavy as it has been publicly weighed. Not much genuine or original thought has been devoted to the debt.

Thirty-one per cent of the debt is held in bonds by commercial banks (figures are actually from June last year but the situation has not materially changed since then.) That means your deposits in the banks rest to a considerable extent on the bonds, as everyone realizes. But, as no one seems to realize, those banks pay a high income tax rate on the interest they receive from the same government bonds. The rate on corporations is a flat 24 per cent normal tax plus a surtax of 14 per cent on the entire amount, it over $50,000, at least. Thus it a bank is a corporation and makes more than $50,000, it may pay back to the federal government 38 per cent of the interest it receives.

Individuals hold 23.5 per cent of the debt and must pay rates similarly high on interest they receive, corporations and associations hold 9.9 per cent, insurance companies 9.3, Federal Reserve banks 8.8 and — Would you believe it—the federal government owns 10.8 per cent of its own debt upon which it must pay interest to itself.

So while the budget contains the elephantine figure of $5 billions for annual interest payments on a debt of $260 billions, it neglects to note how much of the $5 billions it gets back. Some authorities guess a considerable portion of the cost is recovered. This is the point (more clearly stated) to which I made passing reference in a recent column. Some individuals pay back as much as 50 per cent in taxes of the interest they receive from the government, and perhaps the corporations more. The government merely keeps these two considerations in two different pockets. The spending pocket has been widely advertised but the receiving pocket has been largely invisible in the congressional discussions.

An editor long-distanced a call for more details about the taxes on a person earning $50 a week in addition to my somewhat confusing previous reference. The Internal Revenue Bureau form (1010) calls for payment on that sum of $6.75 a week for a person without dependents. (The tax is specified as $352 a year on 2800.) On a person with one dependent, the tax is $257 on $2600 or $4.94 a week. Thus it is practically accurate to conclude that the average person earning $50 a week pays more than $5 because without dependents they pay $6.75.

As Pegler Sees It

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—The acquittal of Joe Fay, the vicious union racketeer and politician of the Frank Hague adherence, actually was no surprise to those who followed with a knowing intelligence the awkward prosecution in Judge Thomas F. Meany's Federal court in Newark, N. J. Still it was a shock because it was hard to believe that anything so raw could happen in a Federal court.

The shock struck Tom Clark, the attorney general, in Washington, who could have prevented it all, however, by relieving Edgar H. Rossbach, the United States attorney, and sending in a man from outside.

"I think it was a damned outrage," Mr. Clark said and announced that now, with the damage done, he was sending a man from Washington to investigate Rossbach's office.

Fay was tried for cheating the government out of $118,875 which he owed as income tax on bribes and tribute received from contractors on great construction jobs financed largely by the federal treasury.

Before the farce began, attention was called to the fact that Fay, the defendant, Judge Meany and Rossbach all were members of the Hague local of the Democratic party. This gang has been described in harsher terms by many other members of the same party. These three were members not only of the same local lodge but members of a small ruling circle whose political and social interests are intertwined.

Meany and Rossbach had their chance to disqualify themselves and ask Clark to send in men with no local connections. In doing so

They took more than one-tenth of the year for the federal government but the man making more works a much greater portion of the year for his tax.

The arguments being developed, chiefly in Democratic circles but now also eating their way into the Republican tax theory, to upset the flat 20 per cent rate, are therefore considerably unrealistic.

In this connection, a tax expert in congress has been found who has pointed out to me the place in the income tax instructions where you are told you might get back the 3 per cent normal tax on income from Federal bonds. This provision is obscured by a headline for which a copy reader on any newspaper would have been fired. It tells nothing.

Nowhere on the form is there any category for deducting legally non-taxable interest, but there is a place for you to pay it. Indeed the form requires you to submit it in your income. Unquestionably, the taxpayer is giving the government interest it is not legally entitled to collect, and he never knows the difference.

So then while the war debt is a somewhat staggering new influence in the economy, the carrying of it is not as heavy as publicly proclaimed. Cutting it down is necessary in the interests of all people whose economy is irretrievably wrapped up in it through their bonds and bank deposits. But the Truman balanced budget only calls for retirement of $200 millions or so of the $260 billions, a modest amount. Ordinarily the situation would seem to call for a debt retirement program to run through the years. A certain definite amount could be set aside annually for retirement and this figure could be accumulated from budget pruning and elimination of waste. A debt retirement program adopted at this time to set aside a certain amount in each future year would put government emphasis on saving and financial efficiency. They would not have impaired the prestige of the court or the U. S. attorney's office. They elected not to do so.

Mr. Clark's attention had been directed to the case after it was assigned to Judge Meany, he expressed confidence in Judge Meany both during and after the trial and other qualified persons exonerated Meany of any appearance of dirty work on the bench. One legal observer who had reasons to view his conduct with a skeptical eye found no fault. Mr. Clark openly declared his displeasure concerning the presentation by Rossbach, however. His inquiry, it is made in good faith, must call upon the agents of the Treasury, who prepared the case and handed it to the Department of Justice for prosecution, to tell how much time Rossbach spent with them going over the government's evidence.

Rossbach might be asked whether he availed himself of the material prepared for the cross-examination of Fay in his trial in New York on charges of extortion. Fay was convicted here by District Attorney Frank S. Hogan and sentenced to serve from 8 1/2 to 16 years in prison. He did not dare take the witness stand against Hogan, who had prepared a list of questions about two inches thick dealing with "criminal, vicious and immoral acts" of his past career. He did take the stand in Newark. Rossbach could have come into Fay's old arrest in Newark on a charge of impersonating a federal officer and shaking down bootleggers in collusion with a New Jersey policeman. He could have brought out that Fay viciously slugged David Dubinsky, the president of the International Ladies' Garment Worker's union, at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor in New Orleans several years ago, and the reason for the assault. The reason was that Dubinsky had offered a resolution which would have excluded Fay from union of-Rossbach could have brought out that Fay once was thrown out of the A. F. of L. for engaging in the construction industry while he was also ruling unions of men engaged in that industry. By what process he got back into the union racket the public does not know. He could have examined Fay on his indictment in Syracuse, N. Y., for slugging and kicking another union goon named Orville Warner, of Rochester, and breaking his jaw. In that case, Warner conveniently disappeared when the trial was called and Fay was dismissed when the case might have been continued. Warner then reappeared in his old union job in Rochester. Shortly afterward, Warner bought a fishing camp and saloon. Rossbach did refer to Fay's conviction by Mr. Hogan but he did not take advantage of his right to go into all the facts which would have further revealed Fay as a vicious character.

And Rossbach sat in his chair during the cross-examination, a passive attitude robbing the examination of force.

The most glaring incident of the trial was the discovery that Rossbach had permitted a juror to be accepted who had been a member of one of Fay's own local unions until four months ago and whose three nephews still were members. This juror is now a contractor in a small way and owns an excavating machine which he can operate only by Fay's favor. Here was a juror placed in a position to give a "fair" verdict on a man who could ruin him in business simply by refusing to let any union man work on his jobs, and take revenge on his relatives.

It is almost universal practice among prosecutors and defense attorneys in big cases to make thorough investigations of the men and women called for jury duty. They look into their past associations, learn who their friends are, where their relatives are employed, and what clubs and fraternities they belong to.

Yet Rossbach with the F. B. I. his to command for such inquiry and with an extraordinary personal knowledge of the people of his federal district, accepted this juror. And when the facts were exposed, which caused the court to excuse him and proceed with eleven jurors, it was not Rossbach who discovered them but Jack Scully, a reporter on the Newark Evening News.

Later evidence turned up that one woman juror's husband was employed by the municipality of Jersey City as a tax appraiser, usually a political job and drew "substantial sums" from the very capitol of the Frank Hague political realm; and that another woman juror was a sister of a captain of the Bayonne fire department, where Hague's power of appointment and preferment is an accepted fact of life. And Fay is a loyal henchman of the Hague gang.

Knowing the political background, for he once prosecuted some other union racketeers in New York, Mr. Clark let the trial go on to a result that was a foregone conclusion to those who had sniffed the atmosphere and found something rotten in the courtroom.

Deaths

ANDREW J. VOLSTEAD
Granite Falls, Minn., Jan. 21—(AP)—Andrew J. Volstead, the man who, more than any other, personified prohibition in the United States, died Monday at his Granite Falls home after having been in virtual retirement since the federal statute bearing his name was repealed in 1933.

The western Minnesota country lawyer served in congress for 20 years and was chairman of the house judiciary committee when an enforcement act to implement the 18th amendment became necessary in 1918.

How much of that act Volstead himself wrote remained his secret when he died at the age of 57. But in the popular mind that law became known as the Volstead Act when it was passed by congress over President Wilson's veto.

Before going to congress he served as Granite Falls mayor and city attorney, and later county attorney, before being elected to congress in 1903. He resumed private practice here following repeal but was forced by failing health to retire several years ago. A daughter, Mrs. Carl Lomen who lives here, is his sole survivor.

The funeral tributes were many and beautiful showing the love and esteem in which she was held by neighbors and friends. Those who bore her to her final resting place were: Fred Billeb, Kenneth Billeb, Elwood Ortgiesen, Daniel Ortgiesen, Jr., Chester Latkey and Ted Scheffler. Those who attended the funeral from out of town were: Mrs. Minnie Schoeneman, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Latkey and family, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fairfax of Rock Falls. My heart is hushed in a moment as the daylight falls tender and sweet.

And I cross in the spirit the river,
And kneel at the Master's feet,
And I rest in the shade that there falleth
From the trees that with healing and rule
That shadows the banks of the river—
The river of water of life.
There falls on my restless spirit,
A hush, oh, so wondrously sweet,
As I cross over the dark deep river
And rest at the Master's feet.

THE STORY: Mike Carrell has been mustered out of the Army and is due home, according to the newspaper, but he hasn't let Cassie Fletcher know he was coming. Cassie is deeply in love with Mike although there never was anything definite said between them. She looks forward excitedly to seeing him again. Loni, her younger sister, has a date with the pretty Lon Cavendish. Cassie thinks Loni runs around too much for a girl her age.

CASSIE waited all afternoon for Mike's call. Every time the phone rang she braced herself for his voice, and when the day had finally dragged by, her heart was heavy with disappointment.

She'd probably fooled herself about Mike for a long time. He hadn't written purposely. He'd wanted it to end like that. Just a gradual breaking off. Or, maybe there was somebody else now.

She put on the crazy little white flower hat, and powdered her nose and painted her mouth into a bright curve. The swift descent of the elevator didn't bother her tonight because she already had a gone feeling in her midriff.

And then when he stood. She saw him at once, and her heart leaped like a live thing. He leaned, one broad shoulder against the wall, his short, thin figure. At ease, and smoked a cigar. His hat was at that crazy angle he always used to wear it. A blonde brushed by, turned to look back at him. Mike was handsome. There was a certain devil-may-care look about him that attracted women.

"Hello Mike!" Cassie wished her heart wouldn't pound so. Mike stood up, tossed his cigar into the sand and urn and swept at his hair. His blue eyes lit up.

just the way they used to. He was very tanned, and a trifle thinner. They stood looking at each other for a moment and Cassie wondered if he were going to kiss her. He didn't, but the way his eyes roved over her hungrily was enough.

"Cass, baby," his voice grew a trifle husky over the nickname, "did you miss me?"

THE next was a crazy blur, and there was just herself and Mike, walking along on a heavenly cloud, no other people, no traffic, no world—nothing.

He put her arm affectionately. "Here's the old jalopy, parked by the stone old fireplug, and the same old cop waiting for me with a ticket!" Mike let go of her arm and held out his hand to the officer.

"Mike! You old son of a gun!" the cop cried. He shook hands with Mike, tipped his cap to Cass, "Up to you and trucks, kid. Get that car out of here, boy, before I write you up one. It's grand to see you home again."

They got in and Mike reversed the red roadster away from the curb. He drove up Main street to Carson, the street that ran along the tracks, and turned North, taking the long way home, past the old deserted Hamilton Machine works and across the creek bridge.

Just past the bridge over the creek he stopped the car, switched the ignition off and turned to look at Cassie. Unsmiling, intent, his blue eyes roved her face as if searching for something.

"Cassie!" His voice trembled

Two Chairmen Will Discuss Auxiliary's Legislative, National Defense Program

Legislative and national defense programs of the American Legion and Auxiliary will be discussed by Mrs. Anna Moore, legislative chairman, and Mrs. Florence Anderson, national defense chairman, at the meeting of members of the Dixon auxiliary unit at the Legion hall tomorrow night, Jan. 22, at 8:00 o'clock. Refreshments will be served at the close of the business session and all members are urged to be present.

Ten resolutions regarding Legion sponsored legislation were adopted at the national convention in San Francisco, according to Mrs. Lucille Gorham, unit president. These include resolutions to extend the time of filing application for World War I adjusted compensation, to permit immediate redemption of G. I. terminal leave government bonds into cash, to permit discharged enlisted men to purchase surplus items available only to former commissioned personnel, to permit chartered "retirees' organizations to purchase surplus real estate property, to extend the time limit for applying for mustering out pay and to provide tax exemption on cigarettes purchased by the Legion for distribution in hospitals.

In following the Legion's National Defense program, the Auxiliary believes that universal military training is the key to a realistic defense program. Mrs. Gorham stated. Throughout the year the Dixon unit, along with all of the other units in the Legion, will study and work for the Legion's 12-point program.

This includes in part: acquisition and maintenance of such air, sea and ground bases as are necessary for the protection and security of the nation, continued maintenance and modernization of a strong Navy and Air Force, development of efficient military intelligence and scientific research systems, and reserve forces to include the national guard, the organized reserve of the Navy, Marines and the R.O.T.C.

NCIC INITIATES 10th MEMBER, SECRETARY REVEALS

Bobtales

By BOB FALLSTROM

Perhaps you noticed a story in Saturday's Chicago Daily News implying that a tenth school was about to be added to the North Central Illinois conference.

For several years the loop has openly coveted another member. As we understand it, numerous bids to nearby schools have been advanced. All missed their mark.

Now with three Rock River Valley conference schools out in the cold following a recent break-up, another drive has popped up.

Naturally, Rochelle, Morrison and Amboy would like to join forces with the established NCIC. However, unconfirmed reports say the schools would rather go it as a body. It is entirely possible that the school invited will utter a polite "no".

In the past, Morrison has been linked to a projected league which would include Iowa teams. Rochelle should have a fine chance to hook on somewhere else. Amboy is less fortunate in size and location and could be hard pressed to schedule suitable opponents.

But to get back to the Chicago tale, there seems to have been a bad slipup somewhere along the line. According to our information, no mention of the invite was to appear in print until the deal has actually panned out.

Even at such a late date as yesterday, Principal Thokke of Rock Falls high school, refused to comment. Thokke is authoritatively named as the deal's contact man . . . yet he failed to divulge the faintest inkling of a story.

CRUCIAL TILT—Coach Russell Mills' undefeated South Central heavyweight boys were scheduled to meet Coach Reuben Krakow's North Central challengers in a hot scrap after school today.

South capped the first tilt between the city's two premier grade school fives, 37-31, Dec. 19.

ANOTHER THRILLER—The Route 72 conference tourney inaugurates play tonight at Ashton. It's a waste of time, money and effort, however, because it's reasonably apparent that Ashton and Byron will meet for the crown at Oregon come Saturday night.

About the only clubs that have a ghost of a chance to upset either of these little school "giants" are Monroe Center and Stillman Valley. Ashton narrowly edged Stillman, 39-38, recently, pulling the game out of the fire in the final 45 seconds on a basket by Mark Montanus.

If both quintets win as expected, Saturday's showdown should be something to see. Ashton won the first time they met, 26-25, Dec. 20 on a last-ditch free throw by Junior Krug.

The Green and Gold Aces have yet to be beaten while Byron's slate is marred by only the one-point loss.

SHORT SHOTS—Kings had won 11 ball games in a row until B & A crushed 'em, 60-27, Friday eve. . . Up at DeKalb, they tell us Center Jerry Hannan, the boy who tallied 63 points in successive nights against Dixon and Decatur, had the same opportunity at Rock Falls . . . but just wasn't clickin' . . . The gents sponsoring movies of Duke games have decided to film the Dixon-Polo game in Marquette Feb. 1 in deference to the forthcoming Mendota game here Friday. Reason: not enough light and improper camera facilities.

Fulbright Proposes High Office Change In Two Proposals

No Immediate Action is Probable on Either of Senator's Plans

Washington, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Senator Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, startled the Democrats with his ideas about the presidency. Now he has backed up his ideas with direct action.

He has offered two proposals in Congress:

1. A law to permit a presidential election in mid-term if the president died or quit and there were no vice-president, as now.

2. An amendment to the constitution by which the president or Congress could call an election any time for president and Congress.

This is how it came about: In 1886 Congress passed an Act—it still stands—which said who'd be president if, for any reason, there were no president or vice-president.

Would Change Order First in line would be Secretary of State and, after him, if anything happened to him, the other members of the cabinet.

When Vice-President Truman became president, we were left without a vice-president. Secretary of State Marshall now would be next in line.

But when Mr. Truman became president two years ago, his own political party, the Democrats, controlled House and Senate in Congress.

In last November's election the Republicans won control of both Houses. So these questions arose: Would Mr. Truman be able to get along with the Republican Congress?

Or would they block each other? If so, would the country suffer? Mr. Truman has two more years in the White House. The next presidential and congressional elections are in 1948.

Senator Fulbright thinks the November elections in 1946 show the people want the Republicans to run the country until 1948.

He suggested, after the November elections, that Mr. Truman appoint a Republican Secretary of State to succeed him and then quit, under that Act of 1886.

Shocked His Colleagues That would mean a Republican president and Republican Congress. The Fulbright idea shocked a lot of Democrats. No president had ever quit.

Mr. Truman made it plain he wouldn't quit. Now Mr. Fulbright

Power in Numbers

•Hanford, Wash., — (AP)—You can spot the high-ups at the atomic energy plant here by their automobile license plates. Lt. Col. Frederick Clarke, officer in charge, has P-239 on his Washington plates. It's for plutonium 239, one of the fissionable materials. U-238, symbol of the uranium isotope—that's the license for Lt. Col. Harry E. Skinner, production chief. IS-238, for Isotope 238, is on Power Superintendent Harry H. Miller's car. A dozen or so others have similar plates. Gov. Mon C. Wallgren helped them get the plates.

has made his two proposals in this Republican-controlled Congress. Here they are:

He suggested Congress change that Act of 1886, in this way. Anytime there's no vice-president and the president dies or quits there shall be an election within 90 days for president and vice-president.

So anytime the opposition party won control of Congress, the president, if he thought the people wanted a man from that party as president, could quit and let the people show by voting whether they did or not.

If there were a president and vice-president—and an opposition party won control of Congress—both could quit and let an election be held.

Could Ask for Vote But Senator Fulbright offered another suggestion, a proposed amendment to the Constitution which would need a two-thirds vote in both Houses and approval by 36 States before it could go into effect.

But, once it was a part of the Constitution, this could happen:

Any time at all, for any reason, the president could call for an election for president, vice-president, and both Houses of Congress. Congress wouldn't have to okay this.

Or any time at all, for any reason, Congress could call for an election for president, vice-president, members of House and Senate.

(Congress could call for such an election by simple majority vote and without any okay from the president.)

But no matter who called the election—president or Congress—the terms of the president, vice-president, and members of both Houses would run thereafter for six years, unless ended by another such election.

This would be similar to the British system where elections can be held any time it is thought the majority party in Parliament doesn't represent the wishes of the people.

Since the Fulbright ideas would mean tremendous changes—and since Congress is slow on tremendous changes—probably nothing will be done about them this year—or next.

Coles County Coroner Robbed, Almost Shot

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 21.—(AP)—County authorities today sought an unidentified gunman who, Sheriff Meredith J. Rhule reported, robbed Coles County Coroner Horace V. Clark, Charleston, of $24 and fired several shots at him. Rhule quoted Clark as saying he had driven about two miles out of town after stopping at a Springfield restaurant when a man, who apparently had been hiding in the back seat, pressed a gun to his back.

Clark said the man, after telling him to get out of the car and leave his wallet on the seat, fired several wild shots. The coroner was not hurt.

In a second similar action filed by the same attorney at Freeport yesterday, the Northwestern Steel & Wire Co. of Sterling was named the defendant. Portland, Ore.—(AP)—Fire destroyed the University of Portland's heating system, but the 1,185 students donned sweaters and overcoats and began taking final examinations anyway. Most found their fingers cramped a bit writing answers, but the speech course final examination, consisting of extemporaneous speeches, was fine. Its subject: "Heat".

Ogle Baby Dies as Result of Getting Hold of Medicine

Jacqueline Vanderpool, 19-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Vanderpool, Rochelle, died at Wainwright clinic, Oregon, yesterday morning after she ate strychnine tablets which had been prescribed for a heart ailment from which Vanderpool is suffering.

Vanderpool rose from his sickbed Sunday night to rush the child to the clinic when her illness was discovered, but she died at 2 a. m. yesterday.

Ogle county Coroner Fred Horner was planning to conduct an inquiry into the tragedy today.

Mother in Barn The child became violently ill while Mrs. Vanderpool was milking in the barn on their farm, six miles northwest of Rochelle. Vanderpool sent one of three other children to the barn for Mrs. Vanderpool when the child's illness was discovered, and a check on the box containing the strychnine tablets on a bedside table showed a number of the tablets were missing.

Two sisters, Gwendolyn and Carol Ann, and a brother, Michael, survive in addition to the child's parents.

Funeral services were to be held in the Kings Presbyterian church at 2:30 p. m. today, with burial in White Rock cemetery. Arrangements were made at the Unger funeral home, Rochelle.

Demo Snipers Set to Hit GOP Probe Plans

Washington, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Senate Democrats lined up five of their sharpshooters for new blasts today at the Republican proposal to keep the special war investigating committee alive another year.

Democratic speakers in the debate now scheduled to end officially Wednesday afternoon include Minority Leader Barkley (Ky) and Senators Hatch (N.M.), Lucas (Ill.), Russell (Ga) and Hill (Ala.). All are members of the new policy committee charged with being present when the senate meets to give battle to any Republican proposals the minority may be gunning for.

In this case the Democrats have raised the issue that the Republicans—by attempting to set up a special committee to do work that might be undertaken by one of the regular groups—are attempting to undermine the Congressional Reorganization Act.

They played this tune in three days of debate last week.

Police Rout Youths in Postoffice Holdup Try

Salem, Ill., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Four youths held today in the county jail were routed yesterday from the post office at nearby Sandoval where they had barricaded themselves.

A posse of Marion county officers and Centuria police used tear gas bombs to rout them. Sheriff C. E. Woolbright said they would be held for government authorities.

He said they gave their names as Everett Volaw, 17, of Irvington; Virgil Volaw, 21, of Odun; Paul Smith of Centuria City, and John Watson, Jr., of Centuria. Woolbright, Police Chief O. T.

Bounds of Centuria, and other officers said they trailed the four youths to Sandoval and watched them batter down the post office door. When officers called on them to surrender they barricaded themselves inside, Woolbright said.

Hollywood

BY BOB THOMAS

Hollywood — (AP) — Declaring "There have been complaints that studio politics influence the voting," Academy President Jean Hersholt has issued a plea for an impartial election of the annual awards. In a letter to all Academy members, he pleaded for a free ballot and "honest selection of the best achievements." He said Academy membership had been shut down Dec. 1 to prevent any studio from loading the poll list. (Final balloting, once industry-wide, is restricted to Academy members this year). Despite Hersholt's efforts, the Oscar race is shaping up as one of the dirtiest in history.

You'd think Hope and Crosby would hurry along "Road to Rio," since they have their own dough sunk in it. But they are cutting up more than ever on the set. When it was there, Bing broke up a take and Bob remarked, "This man is crazy, we'll go broke laughing!" Then Bob flubbed, and Bing said: "Tell that other boy to rehearse a while." Doty Lamour says she goes home with a sore stomach from laughing all day. It may be expensive, but it makes good pictures.

Everyone who reviews or sees "Till the Clouds Roll By" notes how elephantine Van Johnson appears in his dance number. Van claims it's due to the full-cut coat he sports. He objected to it before and after the sequence was made, but his pleas fell on deaf ears.

Lynn Bari may sign a deal with RKO. Dick Powell would like to take an air trip around South America, but June Allyson doesn't go for that type of travel. Rumors are flying again about a big new studio in Culver City to house all independent producers. Benny Goodman signed a long term contract to record for Capitol.

Annual T. B. Report Shows Results of 11 Clinics Here in 1946

Eight Active Cases Are Found; Seal Sales Hit $7283.55 Total

A total of 118 chest examinations, 310 X-ray interpretations, 60 tuberculin tests and 20 sputum tests were taken at 11 clinics held in the office of the county tuberculosis nurse in the annex of KSB hospital during 1946. It was revealed today in the annual report.

Eight active cases of tuberculosis, all of which were hospitalized, were discovered during the past year, the report discloses, while three patients were discharged as arrested cases, and four died during the year. Two of these deaths, however, were attributed to "complications other than tuberculosis."

Check Service Rejections
Thirty-seven check rejections were checked by tuberculin tests at the clinics here, and 60 were checked by X-ray.

All Lee county rejectees who were turned down because of tuberculosis were carefully followed up by X-rays, and examinations at the clinics. In spite of the careful check of these men at induction centers, the report discloses, many returning from the service are being referred to the local clinic for further medical care.

During 1946 16 returned servicemen had chest X-rays and were checked at regular intervals, the report reveals. This program is financed entirely by the Christmas seal sale.

Financed by Seal Sale

The seal sale also finances the county-wide tuberculin skin testing program in all high schools, where tests are made available to all freshmen, seniors, newcomers and school employees annually.

Out of 635 tests administered, 28 were found to be positive reactors. These were X-rayed and will continue to be watched at stated intervals. During 1946 40 high school students who had been found to be positive reactors in previous checks were rechecked by X-ray.

The report also discloses that the Christmas seal sale total hit a high of $7,283.55 in January, $1,003.85 more than the 1946 total on March 31.

Two Organizations Serve
Two organizations serve in the county's tuberculosis control program, the Lee county Tuberculosis Sanatorium board and the Lee county Tuberculosis association, financed solely by the sale of the Christmas seals.

Heading the Tuberculosis Sanatorium board are Dr. D. L. Murphy, Dixon, president; Henry A. Knetsch, Paw Paw, secretary; and Herman Bachofen, Amboy, director. Financed by taxation, this organization provides for the actual care of tuberculosis sufferers, provides clinics, nursing service and the services of a chest specialist.

The Tuberculosis association is headed by Edward A. Jones, Dixon, president; Dr. D. L. Murphy, Dixon, vice-president; Henry A. Knetsch, Paw Paw, secretary; Esther Barton, Dixon; John A. Torsen, Dixon; Dr. H. M. Edwards, Dixon; Dr. S. C. Fleming, Paw Paw; and O. W. Funkhouser, Amboy. A board of directors also represents each township in the county, and Mrs. Connie Wood Dixon, is seal sale chairman.

Wreck Injuries Prove Fatal to Madison Man

Chicago, Jan. 21—(AP)—Paul Pichota, 39, Madison, Wis., died last night of injuries suffered Jan. 14 when he was pinned under his overturned automobile after it collided with another car.

George Wilson, 44, told Morton Grove police that Pichota's car struck his. He said Pichota's wife, Dorothy, 35, was driving the car. She was still in a hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises.

CHEST COUGHS DUE TO COLDS

There is a quick, easy way to relieve coughing and suffering from colds. No pills, no salves, without opium or narcotics, you just pour a little concentrated M-K into a glass of water and drink it. M-K is a real internal medicine. Discovered by an Illinois Doctor, M-K has been praised by thousands since 1918, because it loosens tight coughs with expectorant action, works fast with nature to soothe and heal tight chest soreness. Take M-K tonight—see how much better you rest and sleep—feel more like your happy, normal self tomorrow, or your druggist will gladly refund your money.

Cat Rescued After 48 Hours in Bloomington

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 21—(AP)—A rabbit trap baited with fish succeeded after cat lovers had tried fruitfully for 48 hours to lure a mewling tabby from a storm sewer.

The cat landed 10 feet below the street surface on a dry tile. She scampered off when would-be rescuers descended and she refused to climb a slanting pole inserted from the street.

The telephone at the east city railroad yards jangled frequently over the week end as callers submitted rescue plans.

When rescued the cat was returned to her mistress, Mrs. C. M. Gee of Bloomington.

The term "Hyperparasite" is applied to that group of insects which attack true parasites.

Draft Decision Soon
The committee is due to get the army's official verdict on draft extension early next month.

Secretary of War Patterson said in a weekend radio broadcast that January recruiting figures will determine whether the army thinks it can afford to let the selective service act expire March 31.

Thus far, the voluntary enlistment program has not been hitting the 27,000 men a month average needed, Patterson said, adding that he is "not sanguine" about the January results.

New York, Jan. 21—(AP)—Continuing to indicate that listeners this season are far from agreed upon their top preferences from week to week, the newest Hooper program checkup has done some more switching around. It advanced Bob Hope from third place to a tie at first with Fibber and Molly, who were in second by one-tenth of a point last time. Jack Benny, first in the previous report, went down to third.

Percentage rating for the lead position was 30.2 and that for third was 29.5. This presented a gain of 2.7 points from last time, when the highest rating was 27.5.

Of the others in the first ten, Charlie McCarthy remained at fourth, followed in order by Red Skelton, who went up from ninth; Fred Allen down one place, Screen Guild and Radio Theater in a tie, Walter Winchell and Amos and Andy.

In returning to the Catholic half hour on NBC next Sunday evening for his 17th consecutive season as guest speaker, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen is to devote none of the series of 11 talks on the general theme of "Light Your Lamps" to various aspects of communism.

Cat Rescued After 48 Hours in Bloomington

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 21—(AP)—A rabbit trap baited with fish succeeded after cat lovers had tried fruitfully for 48 hours to lure a mewling tabby from a storm sewer.

The cat landed 10 feet below the street surface on a dry tile. She scampered off when would-be rescuers descended and she refused to climb a slanting pole inserted from the street.

The telephone at the east city railroad yards jangled frequently over the week end as callers submitted rescue plans.

When rescued the cat was returned to her mistress, Mrs. C. M. Gee of Bloomington.

The term "Hyperparasite" is applied to that group of insects which attack true parasites.

Draft Decision Soon
The committee is due to get the army's official verdict on draft extension early next month.

Secretary of War Patterson said in a weekend radio broadcast that January recruiting figures will determine whether the army thinks it can afford to let the selective service act expire March 31.

Thus far, the voluntary enlistment program has not been hitting the 27,000 men a month average needed, Patterson said, adding that he is "not sanguine" about the January results.
